

A NEW OPPORTUNITY AT THIRDPATH! AND SOME GREAT BEACH READING

This newsletter provides a quick recap of some of the exciting conversations we had this past year ... It also lets you know about our job opening so you can help spread the word.

ThirdPath's hiring a Manager of Development and Donor Relations!

Our Manager of Development and Donor Relations will join ThirdPath's executive team and help us identify, prioritize, and implement both annual and long-term development goals. This is a part-time position and we welcome candidates who wish to integrate work and other life responsibilities.

To learn more go to our listing on FlexJobs.com or Idealist.org !

We've gotten over 40 resumes in the last 2 weeks -- but we're guessing our ThirdPath community will be a great resource in helping us find the perfect candidate for this exciting job opportunity.

As a "thank you" for helping spread the word ... we've rounded up some of our favorite blogs from the past year. Want some fun reading while enjoying the last weekend of summer? Click on one of the below "read more" links.

Courageous conversations at work

Read some of the lessons learned from our conversation with Michelle Hickox, the CFO of Independent Bank, and two of her team members as they discussed creating a flexible work team. Read more.

Courageous conversations at home

Want great ideas to help start your "courageous conversations" at home? Then check out the highlights of these two fantastic books, Try to See It My Way by B. Hibbs, and Mating in Captivity by Esther Perel. Read more.

Navigating love, family and two careers

Over the last 15 years we've learned there is a new paradigm - at work and home - that makes "integrated careers" more possible. Read about the key integration practices you can use. Then listen to experts Amy and Marc Vachon put these ideas into practice. Read more.

8 great ways to take a pause

Joe Robinson offers an excellent list of the ways we can slow down and take a pause. We just met Joe again at the amazing Take Back Your Time Conference. We hope this list inspires you just as much as the conference inspired us. Read more.

Unfinished Business - Women men work family

In our last Thursdays with ThirdPath webinar of the season Anne-Marie Slaughter joined us to discuss her ground breaking new book. Follow this link to listen to the webinar and read the skills you can develop to tame our 24/7 business environment. Read more.

Happy reading! And have a great Labor Day.

Here's what's coming up ...

October 13th, 1:00 to 2:00pm ET - FIRST CALL OF NEW SEASON

Did you know two-thirds of millennial men want to share caregiving responsibilities? Just imagine what a positive impact this will have on families, workplaces and the larger society. How can we support them to follow their dreams? What obstacles will they face? Who's leading the way?

Click here to listen to the recording of last season's webinar where we discussed the courageous conversations you need to have - at work and home - to create your own unique "third path" - an integrated approach to work and life.
