

QUICK RECAP OF LAST SEASON ... BEFORE OUR NEW SEASON STARTS!

Read on for highlights from last year's amazing Thursdays with ThirdPath webinars. Our focus was supporting Millennials to live the lives they want ... but the topics addressed were helpful for everyone.

The season began with a group of pioneering thinkers discussing how millennials who make "smart choices" early in their careers, increase their success in creating integrated solutions over the life course.

We then had Jennifer Deal, author of, What Millennials Want from Work, share research demonstrating how millennials want many of the same things that ThirdPath has been advocating for, for over 16 years!

Want to listen again? Click here, for a full list of last season's webinars.

In December, Sara Sutton Fell, founder of FlexJobs, and two ThirdPath Pioneering Leaders - all experts in flexibility - discussed the opportunities and challenges of creating flexible workplaces that truly support success at work AND success in life.

Then Brigid Schulte author of the book Overwhelmed, and Ben Applegate, inventor of the term "episodic vs chronic overwork", joined us to analyze the epidemic of overwork and the steps we as leader and individuals need to take to push back at this problem.

Our February webinar put a spotlight on Matt Becker, founder of Mom and Dad Money, and two Shared Care families. Together we discussed how we can redesign work, family, and our financial choices to help us follow our dreams.

Want to listen to just the audio version of the webinars? Download them from iTunes.

Joe Robinson joined us next. He's an expert on work life balance and the importance of creating "down time." His lively presentation showed us why creating a well-rounded life - one that includes plenty of down time - brings more joy to our lives.

In May we shared highlights from our invitation-only Pioneering Leader's Summit where an inspiring group of male and female leaders came together to learn, and support each other to push for even greater change.

We concluded the season with our 7th Annual Father's Day webinar where we shared the latest research from Boston College's Center on Work and Family.....

They've discovered 2/3rds of millennial men want to be active and engaged fathers.

Thanks for being part of the growing, vibrant, inspiring ThirdPath community!
/Jessica and the ThirdPath team

PS - Want a sneak peek of our plans for this year? Click here.

